ASPIRO Announces New President

Lincoln Burr assumes role of ASPIRO's sixth President in 62 year history

Green Bay, WI – ASPIRO's Board of Directors announced today Lincoln Burr has been selected as ASPIRO's next President. Current President, Michael Duschene, will be retiring at the end of the year. Burr will assume his new duties on October 7, 2019.

Burr has over 23 years' experience managing both for-profit and nonprofit agencies dedicated to promoting the well-being of individuals with developmental disabilities, most recently as the CEO of Disability Service Provider Network in Madison, WI. Prior to his current position, he held leadership positions at Chrysalis Global, Homes for Independent Living of Wisconsin and Paragon Industries (now known as Pantheon Industries and Paragon Community Services).

Chris Elfner, Board of Directors Chair, states, "Lincoln brings the experience and vision we are looking for to lead ASPIRO. We look forward to welcoming him to the community and to the families ASPIRO serves. We are grateful to Mike Duschene for his 27 years of service to ASPIRO and wish him the best in retirement."

From Early Intervention to our Senior Services, ASPIRO helps individuals with disabilities live their best lives. We recognize that one size does not fit all and we respect the choices they and their families make for their lives. Our day services are offered in a specialized setting with the supports needed for success. Our community based services are offered in the individual's home or in the greater community. In either case, ASPIRO offers individuals with disabilities the opportunity to do the things in their lives that are important to them because if it is important to them, it is important to us.
